

October 9, 2016

Deliverance - Exodus 12:1-14

- The word culture comes from the word for worship – cultus. Cultures are formed as people consider what is true, beautiful, and of value, and then practices develop around those ideas. Cultures develop a litany of practices that form the people that live within that setting into a particular kind of people.
- “The core of the person is what he or she loves, and that is bound up with what they worship—that insight re-calibrates the radar for cultural analysis. The rituals and practices that form our loves spill out well beyond the sanctuary. Many secular liturgies are trying to get us to love some other kingdom and some other gods.” –James K. A. Smith
- “The blood on the door will mark this as a home God can ‘pass over;’ it is marked as an Israelite home. Excuse me, does God not know which are Israelite homes (and anyway, are the Israelites not all together in that ghetto in Goshen)? ...In calling this a sign ‘for you,’ however, Exodus also hints at the significance of daubing the blood for the people. It is their proclamation of who they are; they mark themselves as Israelites and not Egyptians.” – John Goldingay
- “This imagery is picked up in Revelation—in particular ch. 13. John, the Revelator, sees people as either marked by the Lamb or by the beast. To be marked by Lamb or beast is to be possessed by that entity. There is no in-between for Exodus or for Revelation, the people are marked by, and thus belong to one entity or the other: Empire or Kingdom. In both places, the consequences are the same. If a person is marked by the empire, the result is death and destruction.” —T.S. Daniels

Next week: The STORY series continues. Moses, Part 2

October 9, 2016

Deliverance - Exodus 12:1-14

- The word culture comes from the word for worship – cultus. Cultures are formed as people consider what is true, beautiful, and of value, and then practices develop around those ideas. Cultures develop a litany of practices that form the people that live within that setting into a particular kind of people.
- “The core of the person is what he or she loves, and that is bound up with what they worship—that insight re-calibrates the radar for cultural analysis. The rituals and practices that form our loves spill out well beyond the sanctuary. Many secular liturgies are trying to get us to love some other kingdom and some other gods.” –James K. A. Smith
- “The blood on the door will mark this as a home God can ‘pass over;’ it is marked as an Israelite home. Excuse me, does God not know which are Israelite homes (and anyway, are the Israelites not all together in that ghetto in Goshen)? ...In calling this a sign ‘for you,’ however, Exodus also hints at the significance of daubing the blood for the people. It is their proclamation of who they are; they mark themselves as Israelites and not Egyptians.” – John Goldingay
- “This imagery is picked up in Revelation—in particular ch. 13. John, the Revelator, sees people as either marked by the Lamb or by the beast. To be marked by Lamb or beast is to be possessed by that entity. There is no in-between for Exodus or for Revelation, the people are marked by, and thus belong to one entity or the other: Empire or Kingdom. In both places, the consequences are the same. If a person is marked by the empire, the result is death and destruction.” —T.S. Daniels

Next week: The STORY series continues. Moses, Part 2

THE STORY

FINDING YOUR STORY IN GOD'S STORY

Worthlessness had become second nature.

The Passover formed people into a particular identity.

The Passover meal was an act of "counter-formation".

We participate in things that shape us.

Christ's Body gathers to be re-shaped by the kingdom.

God is our audience as we worship Him.

This is God's Story. We need it and have a role in it.

It is not all about us.

Joshua 24:15 "Choose this day Whom you will serve."

What jersey will you wear?

Egypt was bad, but it was familiar.

Be ready to follow God, Who is always 'on the move'.

THE STORY

FINDING YOUR STORY IN GOD'S STORY

Worthlessness had become second nature.

The Passover formed people into a particular identity.

The Passover meal was an act of "counter-formation".

We participate in things that shape us.

Christ's Body gathers to be re-shaped by the kingdom.

God is our audience as we worship Him.

This is God's Story. We need it and have a role in it.

It is not all about us.

Joshua 24:15 "Choose this day Whom you will serve."

What jersey will you wear?

Egypt was bad, but it was familiar.

Be ready to follow God, Who is always 'on the move'.