Habits of Highly Missional People

What does the word
'church'...

mean to the Church?

The Church functions as Jesus in the world

Does our faith in God affect the patterns and rhythms of our lives?

“When gifted evangelists tell the rest of us that we should behave like gifted evangelists too it has a debilitating effect. We look at confident, articulate, theologically trained evangelists preaching in our churches and hear their stories ...of sharing the gospel on the back of a napkin in a restaurant or on a plane, and then we hear them tell us that we too can (and indeed, should) do what they do and we freeze! We know we can't do what they do."

Some are called to be evangelists.

Others are called to live
'questionable' lives.

“The believers’ function then was to pray like crazy and conduct themselves—in word and deed—in such a way as to provoke unbelievers to question their beliefs and enter into an evangelistic dialogue.”

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC

“...congregations speak about Jesus conversationally when questioned about how they deal with suffering, or why they spend their vacation serving the poor, or why they’ve opened their home to refugees, or why they’re fasting during Lent, or why they’ve made career choices that allow them to contribute to the greater social good.”

Blessing

...to add strength to another person's arm

Together, let's pray for the Lord to help us become bold evangelists or intriguing Christ-followers...
leading questionable lives.
